EDUCATION

- 2017      Ph.D., Anthropology, University of Michigan.
            Dissertation Title: The Crucible of Complexity: Community Organization and Social Change in Bronze Age Transylvania (2700-1320 BC).
- 2006      M.A., Anthropology, Washington State University.
            Thesis Title: Vital Signs: Costly Signaling and Personal Adornment in the Near Eastern Neolithic.
- 2004      B.A., Anthropology, University of Notre Dame.

PROFESSIONAL POSITIONS

- 2025-present    Associate Professor, Department of Anthropology, University at Buffalo, SUNY
- 2023-2025      Assistant Professor, Department of Anthropology, University at Buffalo, SUNY
- 2023            Associate Professor, Anthropology Department, Hamilton College
- 2017-2023      Assistant Professor, Anthropology Department, Hamilton College
- 2016-2017      Lecturer, Department of Anthropology, Appalachian State University

RESEARCH AND TEACHING INTERESTS

- Theory:        Political economy, landscape archaeology, mortuary theory, evolutionary theory, signaling theory, social networks.
- Topics:        Increasing social complexity, origins of inequality, cremation, metal procurement, public archaeology, sustainable mining, community engaged-research.
- Methods:      Archaeological survey, lithic technological analyses, human osteology, Bayesian analysis, radiocarbon analyses, GIS, network analysis.
- Regions:      Europe, North America, Near East.
